

Paid Internships in Community College Advocacy!

$5000 annual stipends!

Are you passionate about community colleges and social justice?
Want to learn to grassroots political organizing and advocacy skills?
Are you good with people and working in a team?
We may have an internship for you!

The mission of De Anza's Institute of Community and Civic Engagement (ICCE) is to advance education for democracy with full participation of all of our communities as its core value. Because it is our goal to empower students to be agents of change in the social, economic, political realities of their lives, their communities and beyond, the ICCE is seeking students to participate in an 11-month paid internship program in grassroots community and student organizing. Interns will take part in at least 10 hours a week of internship work organizing and advocating for community college funding and social justice, weekly team meetings, 4 units of academic credit, and quarterly skills workshops and trainings.

The internship begins in August 2010 through the end of the 2010-2011 academic year. There will be a $5000 stipend for 11 months (stipend contingent upon grant funding).
