

Reading Questions, “Seinfeld and the Moral Life”

1. What, according to Epperson, distinguishes the moral life from “the life of integrity”?
2. Why, according to Epperson, is integrity “not an unconditional virtue”?
3. Why might viewers of Seinfeld think that the characters in the show do not care about the moral life?
4. Does Epperson agree with this position? Why?