SUBJECT: International Student Survey, Summer 2007

The International Student Survey was conducted in summer of 2007 using a pen and paper format. All of the approximately 1,300 international students attending De Anza College in fall 2007 were invited to respond (F1 or FZ visa only). 116 students responded to the survey resulting in a response rate of about 10%. The following is a summary of the survey highlights:

- 56% (64 of 114) students who took the survey were male, and 44% were female. The De Anza College international student population as of October 2007 was 43% male, and 57% female.
- Hong Kong (22%, 25 of 116), Japan (16%, 18 of 116), and Indonesia (14%, 16 of 116) were the top three selected countries of origin for students responding to the survey. In comparisons, Hong Kong made up 16% of De Anza's international student population in fall 2007, with The Republic of Korea at 15% (only 3% of the respondents were Korean) and Japan at 13%.
- The top major was Business at 36% (39 of 116), which is similar to the 39% of De Anza's international student population in fall 2007 selecting a business major.
- 53% (62 of 116) of the students that took the survey were between the ages of 19 and 21.
- UC Los Angeles (16%, 34 of 209) and UC Berkeley (16%, 33 of 209) were the top two schools international students applied to when all four choices are summed. San Jose State University was the second university selected for students' first choice.
- Out of the 28 students who were already accepted into a school, 18% (5 of 28) decided to attend UC San Diego, and another 18% picked San Jose State University.
