Responding and Concluding

Responses and conclusions address what you will do with the ideas. Responses and conclusions are judgments or decisions reached by reasoning. Responses and conclusions can only be made after understanding the reading fully.

Reply to your summary in another paragraph, by one or more of the actions below:

- Discussing a new idea,
- Discussing own opinion through interpreting and connecting to self, personal knowledge, and society.
- Discussing significance (what is important and why),
- How you will use this idea for yourself,
- Act to bring about national or local decisions or changes,
- How you will convince others of these needs,
- Discussing thoughts, feelings, and opinions.

Do not write a summary. You already have one.
